PEDAGOGICAL EXPLANATION

My philosophy in a nut-shell: In my Online Coaching/Editing for Creative Fiction Writers Workshop, I will teach and guide you to write beyond the personal perception of your writing potential. I'll show you how to edit wordy sentences concisely, and the effects of good word choices. I will teach you how and why proper verb tense is important to your manuscript and why you should not switch character point-of-view in the same paragraph. I will impart professional and academic editing knowledge that will hone and add dimension to your writing skills. I will guide you with challenging writing exercises to develop your writing style, and turn up the volume of your narrative voice.

My coaching/editing workshop offers “peer-group critique sessions, developmental editing, substantive content editing, copyediting, proofreading, and line editing, including customized one-on-one coaching sessions” (Cron 2014). My strategies are designed to bolster writer-confidence and empower creative writers to complete tight, clean, query-ready manuscripts.

FOCUS / SPECIALTY

I promise to invest everything I've learned and continue to learn, in you!

- Accountability: We stick to the schedule you've set for yourself
- Editing: Eliminating structural issues and grammatical errors to improve your style and to produce a noticeable first-draft manuscript.
- Insights: Produce the kind of manuscripts agents prefer to receive
- Knowledgeable Coaching: One-on-One writing development and training

If you are determined to write that novel, why not start by writing a manuscript agents notice?

I can teach you how.
